Georgia Mountaineers had probably its most unusual rally this past week in Crossville, TN. Larry and Connie Rosenberry hosted the get together. Because the number of chapter members matched the number of visitors (and the number was less than 10 member coaches) this was not an official chapter rally but everyone still had a good time.

The Rosenberrys were first to arrive, pulling into Spring Lake RV Resort on Monday. On Tuesday they scoped out the local offerings so they would be able to point others to places of interest.

First time attendees, Pam and Brian Riley, were welcomed when they arrived at Spring Lake on Tuesday. It was a rainy evening and everyone ate dinner at their coach.

On Wednesday, the other first time attendees, Al and Lita Hanson arrived. The meeting was very informal as the six of us sat and chatted for a while before Larry gave them a rundown of what to expect as members of Georgia Mountaineers and places to see while they were in the Crossville area. The three couples enjoyed delicious Mexican food at Romo's Mexican Restaurant as they got to know each other.

On Thursday, Pam and Brian went in search of the famous banana splits we had told them about. Tommy and Theresa Sanders, the other members of Georgia Mountaineers, also arrived. We all met in the clubhouse for a pizza dinner. Afterwards we gathered outside Al and Lita's coach and swapped stories.

Friday everyone explored the Crossville area on their own. In the afternoon some of us played cards in the clubhouse. We met at Beef and Barrel for dinner and then visited outside the Riley's coach.

The Hansons had to leave on Saturday so the Rileys, Rosenberrys, and Sanders went in search of the Muddy Pond General Store. On the way we stopped at the Cumberland Mountain General Store. The Rileys opted for Hot Fudge Sundaes while the Rosenberrys and the Sanders accepted the Banana Splits challenge.

We were back at Romo's for another Mexican dinner followed by Dominoes back at the clubhouse.

When it was time to say goodbye on Sunday, the two couples that had been new acquaintances on Wednesday were looking forward to when they see each other again as friends.
